

Training your RP

Training offshore workers for property management tasks in the Philippines demands a tailored approach to meet the specific needs of Australian real estate businesses. Crafting a detailed training plan outlining objectives and procedures is essential. For instance, provide step-by-step instructions on handling rental inquiries, property inspections, and lease agreements. Utilise written guides, video tutorials, and live demonstrations to cater to different learning styles and ensure thorough understanding.

Regular face-to-face video meetings are crucial throughout the training process. Schedule frequent check-ins via video conferencing to address questions promptly and provide feedback, fostering confidence and support for offshore workers. Additionally, patience is key. Recognise that cultural differences may require extra time for understanding and adapting to Australian business practices.

Some basics like daily check-in's over video, an End of Day report and feedback sessions are simple way's to ensure you are giving your Remote Professional the best chance of success.

Here are some example videos on how to train:

- Video 1
- Video 2
- Video 3